Auxiliary Lists Many Of Its Jobs

Vice President Marjorie Laks presided at the March meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Everglades Memorial Hospital Tuesday night in the absence of President Grace Maxson.

A working fund of $20 was granted to the ways and means department, as requested by Mrs. Oni Fay Ursry, ways and means chairman. Mrs. Kay Simonds led a discussion of the possible sponsorship of a local horse show as a fund-raising project for the Auxiliary. A decision on this proposal will be made later.

Present at the meeting were the three officers of the Candy Strippers, the newly organized group of teenage girls who are assisting the Auxiliary in its activities. They told of the work their group is doing at the hospital.

Volume 1, number 1, of the Auxiliary newspaper, which has Mrs. Alice Ramsey as editor and Mrs. Margaret Fanjul, co-editor, was distributed to members at the meeting. It was voted to issue the news sheets on a quarterly basis—every three months.

Also distributed were the newly completed Auxiliary Handbooks, which were compiled and printed by Mrs. Alys Okie. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Okie for her work in making the attractive and useful handbooks.

It was announced that orientation courses for the training of Pink Ladies will be held from time to time for the benefit of new members. This is a required course for Auxiliary members who serve as volunteer workers in the hospital, and each Pink Lady must complete all three sessions of this course. Mrs. Yamilia Alba was welcomed as a new member.

The importance of having a sufficient number of Pink Ladies on duty at the hospital at all times, from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., was stressed at the meeting and members were urged to contact Mrs. Barbara Rosenberg, work schedule chairman, if they have any extra time available for hospital service—even if it is only for an hour or two at a time.

In a brief talk, Hospital Administrator J. C. Simonds, Jr., commended members for the many important services they are doing for the hospital.

More Races For Pahokee Political Pot

More interest has manifested itself in the city council political race in Pahokee during the past few days. A late entrant in the Group 4 council race is Elmer (Babs) Upthegrove, who has qualified against A. J. Gamot for that seat.

To date, Mayor Duncan Padgett remains unopposed as does City Clerk Marshall Lair. Oscar Dobrow in Group 3 doesn't have any opposition.

For the Group 1 seat, there is a lively contest in the making. Carmen Salvatore, incumbent, is being opposed by Lee Carroll Parker.

In Group 2, the incumbent, Harry Brooks Elarbee, is being opposed by Curtis Miners, supermarket owner in Pahokee.

They are a lovely sight for patients' eyes—cool and smiling in their crisp pink-striped smocks.

Oil Leases Increase Cash To The State

Tallahassee—State Comptroller Fred O. Dickinson, Jr. today announced that revenue collected by Florida's oil producers in the first seven months of the current fiscal year has exceeded last year's entire fiscal year totals.

Revenue collected for the first seven months of the fiscal year 1965-66 from the wells in Hendry and Collier Counties totaled $106,789.44. This figure surpassed 1964-65's total of $88,902.15 by some 20 per cent.

At the present rate of increase the revenue should show a 100 per cent gain by the end of the fiscal year, Dickinson said.

This will mean an increase in funds to Collier and Hendry Counties. Counties by law receive 20 per cent of the total revenue after .80 per cent is distributed to the state general revenue fund.

This distribution in the first seven months of the fiscal year resulted in $21,357.89 for the two counties. Collier received $11,046.89 of this total, while Hendry's share was $10,311.00.

Florida's oil producers are subject to a five per cent severance tax under the Oil Producers Severance Tax Law, enacted in 1945.

This law created the five per cent tax of the value of the net taxable oil produced at the well, which now includes two operating oil companies—Humble and Sun Oil Companies.

Humble Oil and Refining Company operates 15 wells in Collier and 20 in Hendry County.

Windham Is Seeking To Be Criminal Judge

Clyde T. Windham, Public Defender and native resident of Palm Beach County, has qualified as a Democratic candidate for the office of Judge of the Criminal Court of Record for Palm Beach County, subject to the May primary.

Upon qualifying, Mr. Windham said: "Justice is law tempered with mercy and the desired administration of criminal justice can be accomplished only by one with a thorough knowledge of criminal law and a deep insight into its function and application to the individual. A criminal court judge is clothed with a most grave responsibility. In his hands lies the power to sentence his fellow man to prison for the rest of his natural life.

"Such awesome authority requires not only the utmost experience and expert ability in the field of criminal law, but also the maturity, compassion and understanding which can come only to one who has devoted years of time, work and effort dealing with the theory of criminal law and its relation to the rights of the individual as measured against the rights of society.

"My 13 years of law practice in Palm Beach County, including two years as assistant county solicitor and two and a half years as Public Defender, both positions working exclusively in our criminal court, together with four years as municipal judge, one year as a special master in our Circuit Court and my 43 years knowledge of Palm Beach County and its people, with a Glades background, have given me the experience, ability, maturity, compassion and temperament giving Florida a total of 38 producing wells in the state.

Sun Oil Company, which began producing oil in the latter part of 1964 with one well, now produces in excess of 98,000 barrels per month. The value per barrel runs just below $2.

The current increase is a continuation of a climb which saw the $45,382.19 total revenue of 1963-64 up 96 per cent in 1964-65.

Cabbage Harvester Being Studied

GAINESVILLE—More efficient and economical harvesting of cabbage may be around the corner for the state's growers as a result of work now going on by University of Florida agricultural engineers.

Tests were made last week with a new experimental cabbage harvester to find out the amount of damage, if any, to a head of cabbage.

Dr. Jim Beeman, assistant agricultural engineer with the state's Agricultural Experiment Stations, said it's hoped that tests will also show how much "retrimming" will be needed to the cabbage head once it has been harvested.

According to Beeman, the harvester is one-row, non-selective, once-over harvester. He said its design is based on the assumption that new hybrid cabbage varieties will develop which will have enough uniformity to allow efficient and economical single harvesting of the crop.

The harvesting gear is attached to the power take off (PTO) of a tractor. "Wide belts grip the cabbage and hold it intact while a rotating knife clips the heads," said Beeman.

The engineer said the position of the actual cut, or height of the cut, can be adjusted while the machine is moving through a field.

He emphasized that the harvester is still in "its experimental stages" and isn't perfected yet for commercial use.

Results from last week's tests which took place at the horticultural unit, northwest of Gainesville will hopefully give the actual amount of yield on a once-over cabbage harvester, said Beeman.

Besides Gainesville tests, researchers hope to give the experimental harvester the once over in tests at Hastings and Belle Glade.

New $3\frac{3}{4}\%$ interest on U.S. Savings Bonds

The Treasury explains why the new ones you buy and the ones you own now are better than ever

Q: How does the new $3\frac{3}{4}\%$ interest rate benefit me?

A: With Series E Bonds, the rate turns $18.75 into $25.00 fourteen months faster than the old rate. Your savings increase faster, because your Bonds mature in just 7 years, 9 months.

With Series H Bonds, the 10-year maturity period stays the same but more interest is paid you each six months. With both E and H Bonds the new rate works out to $3\frac{1}{4}\%$ for the first year and a half; then a guaranteed 4% each year to maturity.

Q: When did the new rate become effective?

A: June 1, 1959.

Q: Does the new rate change the Bonds I bought before June 1, 1959?

A: All older E and H Bonds pay more now—an extra $\frac{1}{4}\%$ from now on, when held to maturity. The increase takes effect in the first full interest period after June 1.

Q: Will the Bonds I own automatically earn their new rate?

A: Yes. You don't need to do a thing—just hold on to your Bonds.

Q: When my E Bonds mature, will they keep on earning interest?

A: Yes. An automatic 10-year extension privilege went into effect along with the new interest rate. This means your E Bonds will automatically keep earning interest after maturity.

Q: With the new interest rate, should I cash in my old Bonds and buy new ones?

A: No. The automatic $\frac{1}{4}\%$ increase makes it unnecessary—and in almost every case it is to your advantage to retain your present Bonds.

Q: How are series H Bonds different from series E Bonds?

A: The chief difference is this: You buy H Bonds at full face value and the interest is paid by Treasury check every six months for the life of the Bond. You buy E Bonds at 75% of face value and the interest accumulates to maturity. H Bonds provide income for living expenses, while E Bonds build a nest egg for the future. That's why many retired people held H Bonds and families saving for, say, a child's education, buy E Bonds.

Q: In what denominations can I buy series E and series H Bonds?

A: E Bonds: $25 (cost $18.75), $50 (cost $37.50), $100 (cost $75.00), $200 (cost $150.00), $500 (cost $375.00), $1,000 (cost $750.00), $5,000 (cost $3,750.00).

H Bonds: $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. They are priced at face value.

Q: How safe are U.S. Savings Bonds?

A: Savings Bonds are an absolutely riskless way to save. The United States Government guarantees the cash value of your Bonds will not drop, that it can only grow.

Q: What if my Bonds should be lost, stolen or destroyed?

A: You can't lose. Every Bond purchased is recorded by the Treasury. If anything happens to your Bonds they are replaced—free.

Q: Where can I buy Bonds?

A: Buy E Bonds at any bank—it takes only a few minutes. Buy them automatically through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. This Plan means you can have any amount you want automatically deducted every pay day. The Bonds you buy by installments are delivered to you automatically, too. Your bank will take your order for H Bonds.

Q: How do I help strengthen America's peace power when I buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

A: Peace costs money—money for military strength and for science. And money saved by individuals helps keep our economy sound.

YOU SAVE MORE THAN MONEY WITH U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

Jim Maynor Seeks Law Making Job

Jim Maynor, Dean of Boys at Palm Beach High School and a Democratic candidate for the Senate, whose seat was abolished by reapportionment, has qualified as a candidate for the House of Representatives, Group 4.

In his announcement Maynor stated: "After considerable thought I have decided to file for the House of Representatives. I am too concerned with the needs of average people to sit idly by. Having worked with boys and girls and their parents, I know what the parents want and the children need, and the problems of each." Maynor also stated that he had done considerable research in the areas of roads, conservation, mental health and equalization of taxes.

Maynor, a former resident of the Glades, said he had received considerable urging to run for the Glades seat. He declined to do so since this is traditionally held for a Glades resident. He added, however, "I am sure the people of Belle Glade and Pahokee know that I will do my best to represent them no matter what seat I run for. I have friends from Lake Harbor to Sand Cut."

Maynor, a resident of Lake Clarke Shores, made a strong bid to unseat Republican Representative Don Reed in the 1964 election.

Pesticide Residue Is Being Studied

GAINESVILLE — The analysis of pesticide residues on crops and the safety of food were discussed at a recent pesticide seminar at the University of Florida.
Doyle Golden, chief of the Florida State Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Residue Laboratories, and George Fong, senior chemist at the Tallahassee lab, spoke to graduate students and state chemical leaders at the research seminar sponsored by the Entomology Department, University Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences.
Golden pointed out that there are four pesticide residue laboratories around the state, two of which are mobile labs to keep on top of Florida's rapidly changing market conditions. Radio dispatched inspectors can quickly gather crop samples and return them to the labs for analysis. These state residue laboratories work closely with the Federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to protect the consumer from excessive chemical residues on food in its raw or natural state, including all fruits, vegetables, nuts, eggs, raw milk, forage, and meats. The FDA and the State Department of Agriculture have set tolerances for how much of a pesticide may remain on a crop when it is marketed. Their roles are regulatory.

Golden said residue labs can issue a "notice of adulteration" on a crop while it is still in the field if it contains excessive pesticide or chemical residues. If the crop is about to be marketed, the state can issue a "stop sale" to protect the consumer from excessive chemical residues on the crop. Many growers request that residue samples be taken for their own protection.

Once a crop leaves the state of Florida, the FDA assumes the responsibility for its safety to the consumer. For example, the FDA can seize a Florida crop in a northern market if it is found to contain excessive residues. Then FDA may notify the state residue labs to analyze samples of the crop at its source.

Less than one per cent of all produce analyzed is found to be adulterated. Crops declared unfit for sale are usually "salvaged" by washing or waiting until the residues dissipate and fall within prescribed levels.

The Florida Agricultural Extension, Service Gainesville, has a program to train people in the proper application of pesticides. Since the inception of the program, violations of tolerances have reportedly been reduced by one-half.

A message from the Treasury of a free people

How to speak out for freedom today

Free men have never gone in much for silence. Even before the first thirteen States became United States, men were speaking for freedom loud and clear.

Today Americans speak out for freedom many ways—in Congress, in local government, in neighborhood activities. Some speak out for freedom in other languages, in other lands. And millions of Americans speak out for freedom every time they buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Every Savings Bond you buy is an investment in freedom. While you're saving money for your own family's future, you're helping Uncle Sam tend to the business of keeping men free today.

Perhaps you don't speak out for freedom in the same tone of voice when you buy a Bond as Patrick Henry did in his famous speech. But you speak every bit as surely. And every bit as proudly.

Why not speak out for freedom now? Buy Bonds at the bank or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Keep freedom in your future with
U.S. SAVINGS BONDS
